<td>Step 1 - Play some songs that are familiar and unfamiliar to students drawing attention to the lyrics. Teacher can give students handouts of the printed lyrics or have students write them from the songs. Teacher could read some of the lyrics aloud and then ask for student volunteers to read others. Discuss some of the elements of the lyric, for example: rhyming words, repeated words or phrases, feelings or images the lyric evokes, and rhythm. Ask students if there are differences between the lyrics with the music and the lyrics without the music. Students can work in pairs or small groups if they want to work with the same lyric and can be given time to write their responses before sharing them with the class.</td>

approach this writing task as they do all others, keeping in mind the components of the writing standard. Students at levels 1 and 2 may need the help of a more experienced writer to record their poems. After students finish writing, ask for volunteers to read the lyrics or poems aloud.

Step 4 - A culminating activity for poetry writing is to make a class poetry book after students have revised and edited their poetry. The class could produce a series of these poetry books.

TEACHER NOTE: The OLRC trade books collection contains many books of poetry http://literacy.kent.edu/Oasis/Resc/Trade/index.html.

For more ideas on teaching poetry, see the OLRC publication "Poetry in the Adult Literacy Classroom" at http://literacy.kent.edu/Oasis/Pubs/0300-26.pdf.

Another resource is Kazemec’s & Rigg’s book Enriching Our Lives: Poetry Lessons for Adult Literacy Teachers and Tutors. Original student poetry can be found in the Beginnings series at http://literacy.kent.edu/Oasis/Pubs/beginnings.html.

Introduction to Poetry

Billy Collins

I ask them to take a poem and hold it up to the light like a color slide or press an ear against its hive.

I say drop a mouse into a poem and watch him probe his way out, or walk inside the poem's room and feel the walls for a light switch.

I want them to water-ski across the surface of a poem waving at the author's name on the shore.

But all they want to do is tie the poem to a chair with rope and torture a confession out of it.

They begin beating it with a hose to find out what it really means.

Driving to Town Late to Mail a Letter

Robert Bly

It is a cold and snowy night. The main street is deserted. The only things moving are swirls of snow. As I lift the mailbox door, I feel its cold iron. There is a privacy I love in this snowy night. Driving around, I will waste more time.
Sentimental Moment or Why Did the Baguette Cross the Road?

Robert Hershon

Don't fill up on bread
I say absent-mindedly
The servings here are huge

My son, whose hair may be receding a bit, says
Did you really just say that to me?

What he doesn't know is that when we're walking together, when we get to the curb
I sometimes start to reach
for his hand

Alley Cat Love Song

Dana Gioia

Come into the garden, Fred,
For the neighborhood tabby is gone.
Come into the garden, Fred.
I have nothing but my flea collar on,
And the scent of catnip has gone to my head.
I'll wait by the screen door till dawn.

The fireflies court in the sweet gum tree.
The nightjar calls from the pine,
And she seems to say in her rhapsody,
"Oh, mustard-brown Fred, be mine!"
The full moon lights my whiskers afire,
And the fur goes erect on my spine.

I hear the frogs in the muddy lake
Croaking from shore to shore.
They've one swift season to soothe their ache.
In autumn they sing no more.
So ignore me now, and you'll hear my meow
As I scratch all night at the door.
